Dear Neville,

Many thanks for your response to my letter regarding Catostylus. I think what I was really trying to say rather than contradicting you was, that because I read that you said it had never stung you, then it wasn't going to sting me!

I guess with the number of Cnidarians that are in your body that you would have a much less reaction than me. Perhaps the CSL Laboratories could use you as a source for anti-venene?

Anyhow, enough of my ramblings. Again, thanks again for your letter and I had not thought that octopus may be just don't like eating mussels!

For your information, I am enclosing some information on the Pro-Dive Underwater Trail that I built in Gordons Bay. You will see that we have used both your books on fishes and marine life as references to marine life in the area.

In the interim, with best wishes.
